Startling Discovery Viruses Are Alive!

Barbara Smart, Sophomore student in Bio 2, last Tuesday made the startling discovery that she had found conclusive proof that viruses are living organisms. Whether or not viruses are living organisms has long been in dispute in the scientific world. Miss Smart's revelation will necessitate radical changes in biological theory and practice; offering a practically new basis for the construction of biological sciences.

Miss Smart made her momentous discovery Tuesday in the Bio 2 lab conducted by Miss French. While the class was conducting an experiment on the tobacco mosaic virus, Miss Smart was manicuring her nails and accidentally dropped some polish remover on the slide containing the virus.

Investigation revealed the stupendous fact that the virus was actually alive.

Miss French immediately called in Dick Jones of the Bio faculty who declared: "This is the most important contribution to science since Louis Pasteur discovered the existence of bacteria in wine!"

Dean Seeley, head of the College of Technology, revealed that a commission from the Nobel Prize Association was flying over from Norway to witness the phenomena. Mr. Seeley declared that Miss Smart may well be the next Nobel Prize winner in the bio-chemistry field.

Mr. McGrath, treasurer of the University, revealed this morning that MGM has contacted his office for rights to make a movie of the historical occurence. The film will be entitled "The Virus and I."

The studio reportedly offered $250,000 for the screen rights, but the offer was declined by Mr. McGrath who stated: "We do not intend to let this matter be commercialized for mere peanuts. MGM is not dealing with a bunch of gullible country hicks."

Miss Smart, when contacted by a reporter of this paper, confided: "It's all very confusing. Now if you'll excuse me, I have to study for a Biology test tomorrow."

Rideout Denounces Wallace Third Party

In a blistering statemnt issued from the front porch of his Durham Canyon home, John G. Rideout denounced Henry A. Wallace's third party and announced the formation of a fourth.

Stating that "Mr. Wallace no longer echoes the sentiments of the parlor liberals," and that "armchair politics must unite," Professor Rideout asserted that "a fourth party was an obvious necessity."

Although no candidate has been picked, authoritative sources claim that Professor Rideout and his associates favor Vladimir Communov. Communov successfully survived eight purges in Moscow by shifting his swivel-chair position. He came to this country in 1938 and has been swiveling ever since.

In a prepared statement for the press, Professor Rideout announced that the fourth party would include Col. McCormack of the Chicago Tribune, Col. L. Q. Stoopnagle, Walter Reuther, Earl Long and Arthur Godfrey. The statement condemned Wallace for not accepting leftist support for his candidacy and announced that Communov would be favorable to the backing of any group, regardless of leanings. Mr. Rideout also stated that his fourth party campaign would be conducted through the already-established local units of PEW (Political Enuchs Waken).

In closing, Professor Rideout stated that if this fourth party did not come out to expectations, a fifth would be activated.

Bachelor Lives a Gay Wedded Life

A long time ago there lived a man and a woman who didn't like the idea of living alone so they did the thing that was natural for two lonely people to do which was to live together not necessarily in happy wedded bliss but happy anyway and so they did just that they lived in happy bliss for a long long time so long in fact that they grew old in a short while much before it came time for them to grow old but they grew old anyway and so they were old much before their time and they died not so long ago which just goes to show you that it's better to live alone and live a long life than to let your self get mixed up in a mutual agrement with another person and live a short time because then you'd die before it came your time to die then you'd have to wait in Purgatory or wherever early souls wait before they get themselves admitted to heaven or hell and eternal bliss which is much better than the bliss one enjoys when one is living with another not necessarily in happy wedded bliss but living just the same however I'd sooner live in happy bliss with someone else than alone in some secluded place by myself.

Schaefer in Pieces! Possessions Blotto!

It was revealed today that Dr. Joseph Schaefer, head of the Economics Dept. here at the University, had lost his entire investment in stocks and bonds. Although no figures were given, it is generally understood that the loss encompassed all of Dr. Schaefer's material possessions.

The losses reportedly occurred from two factors; first, most of Dr. Schaefer's investment was in Bonzana Gold Mine Super-Annuated Preferred Accumulative Stock. A report by the Interior Dept., Bureau of Mining, released yesterday, declared: "... after 87 years of intense research and prospecting on the part of this Dept. and by private investigators, it seems safe to conclude that there is no gold in the Bonzana Gold Mine." This report had a disastrous effect on the stock's value in the exchange, sending it to zero.

Secondly, the balance of Dr. Schaefer's investment was in Bubbling Fizz Natural Health & Vitamin Water Corp. Bonds. The bonds became valueless yesterday when it was learned that the Corp.'s treasurer, I. M. Strait, had embezzled all the Corp.'s funds for reinvestment at Rockingham Park.

When his naughty deed was revealed, Mr. Strait cheated justice by taking a full cup of Bubbling Fizz Natural Health & Vitamin Water — thus taking his own life.

Dr. Schaefer was pretty broken up over the news. After our reporter had picked up the pieces and put him together again, Dr. Schaefer stated: "I don't understand it. It should have followed the law of supply and demand. It's not at all according to Adam Smith."

Whereupon he went to pieces again, and our reporter, unable to find three or four important pieces this time left him as he was hurried back to make his report before the deadline.

Stalin Is to Replace Wallace and Truman

Mr. Stalin had been scheduled to appear here to replace Henry Wallace who had been scheduled to speak as announced in the edition of three weeks ago. Mr. Wallace was unable to appear because of urgent conditions present in Washington. He has been very busy lately writing speeches against Stalin. Mr. Wallace had been signed to replace Mr. Stassen who had been originally scheduled as announced last month. Pressing political engagements have prevented his coming to Durham. He has been absorbed in answering the speeches of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Truman. Thus, the final speaker is Mr. Stalin. In case of any urgent need, the Committee speaker will be at hand — Mrs. Edward V. Blewett.

Mr. Stalin is to speak in place of President Truman who as announced in last week's issue, was originally scheduled to talk. Mr. Truman was unable to appear because of a pressing engagement in Washington — a speech to refute the latest speech of Henry Wallace.

Mr. Stalin is the famous Russian dictator whose actions have caused much controversy in higher international circles. This speech should be of great interest both to students, faculty and the rest of the nation.

The Black and Blue Lecture Series announces that Joseph Stalin will be the speaker tonight for the last lecture of the series. He will speak at 8 o'clock in New Hampshire Hall.

Educational Volumes Received by Library

The Hamilton Smith Library announces the arrival of several new volumes which should be of great interest to students here.

"Sex Life in America" by Comfort and Davenport will be put on reserve in a few weeks. It is a well-written original volume, the result of extensive studies.

"Libido" is a lusty novel of native love in an aboriginal state. The author's preceding volumes, "Lusty" and "Torrid" have been received with great enthusiasm.

Any student who wished to read these books is advised to put his name on the waiting list immediately as the demand will be great.

The Library also announces an art exhibition of 100 nudes which will be exposed to the public during the month of April. Special tours will be conducted.

Professors Killed As Irate Mob of Pupils Wreak Just Vengeance

Pres. Pro-Tem Seeley Flees
Via Oyster River in Canoe

Seething unrest on the campus of the University was fast crystalizing as this paper went to press. Sparked by a recent Letter to the Editor flaying the present tradition-bound administration, a committee headed by Herb "Blood and Guts" Blais and Toby Moscovitz representing 4000 UNH students was taking vigorous action.

The committee, known as the SCOTT (Students Committee to Overthrow Tradition & Tyranny) has already issued a declaration of war and sent their crack troops, Moscovitz's Mauraders from Scott Hall, and Blais' Bombshells from College Road, in a frontal assault on T-Hall.

Hordes Killed

Thirty-three professors, and an itinerant night-watchman who had overslept have been reported killed or missing thus far. Seventeen other members of the administration were placed in protective custody in the basement of Commons where they are being given the same treatment they had given to their former charges. Latest reports state that they are turning into psychiatric cases and it may be necessary to put them out of their misery by requiring their resignations at the end of the semester.

Pat Connors and Joyce Mitchell, leading a scouting party through College Woods sustained minor injuries when they were ambushed by Chief Louie "The Hangman" Bourgoin who fired parking tickets at them. Carmen Ragonese, Connor's lieutenant, succeeded in overcoming "The Hangman" with a flying tackle. Louie has been banished to the salt mines in Durham Point.

Edward Sparrow of Fairchild led a blitz squadron of Tech students in a hasty coup d'etat on James Hall, securing the citadel before the administration forces could carry out their threats of using atomic energy water pistols.

Cut Rule Blamed

The revolt, pardon, the unrest came about as a result of the unmitigated and unjustifiable passage of the so-called Unlimited Cuts Rule which forces students to attend classes when they don't particularly care to. Further, this act was dictatorially passed without student consultation and it is said that this, more than anything else, including banishment of the Liberal Club Magazine, brought up the students dander.

The actual perpetrators of this Un-American rule are not known, but it is felt that Dean W. Medesey and Mr. Raymond C. McGrath, former University treasurer, had a decisive hand in its passing.

Headquarters of SCOTT, located in Lewis Field dugouts, has issued the war-cry: "No Legislation Without Consultation". General Blais has declared: "We intend to fight it out on this line till the end of this semester, and through the summer session if necessary".

Seeley Missing in Action

Acting President Seeley, former head of the overthrown administrative body, is still missing in action. He was last seen floating down the Oyster River in a captured student dugout. However, members of the IFC, IDC and Student Council, mobilized under the command of Woody "I Have Returned" Frazer, are waiting for him at the mouth of the river and it is

Marston's Story Reveals Source of University Grant

The newsroom of the New Hampshire exploded like a volcano last Monday night when a phone tip from Hood House requested a reporter to take down the testimony of Prof. Philip Marston, head of the History Dept., who was in critical condition at Hood House and was requesting a reporter.

The reporter arrived at Hood House to find Dr. Marston in a state of near hysteria. Dr. Batchelder, University Physician, was trying to calm the professor with a small game of gin rummy.

Must Confess

To quote Prof. Marston: "I can no longer hold it back. I've been sitting on this affair too long. I must tell the facts to regain my professional standard of ethics. I have fully considered the loyalty owed to this institution, but unless the facts are told, I shall go down in history as another Pliny the Elder.

"As you know a considerable grant was given to the University by Benjamin Thompson, and this grant enabled the University to expand to its present size. But the sources of Thompson's grant has never been revealed. Ben Thompson made his pile in RUM! Rum-running and rum selling was the source of old Ben's wealth.

"When Old Ben settled in Durham he immediately sized up the tremendous opportunity open to a man of vision and action. He formed an elaborate rum-running system, similar to the famed blockade-runners of the Civil War. The rum was brought by boat from the West Indies to Durham Point. There it was smuggled under the hoopskirts of the women of the Thompson clan, who rode in carriages to Concord and disposed of the kegs for tidy sums. Much of the rum, however, remained here in Durham, to be sold at the Thompson Tap-room located where the Bandit's now stands.

Business Is Business

"Old Ben was doing a good business, and being a thrifty Yankee, made it pay well. We have a diary of one Elujab Weavey-walk which throws some light on Ben's business ability. As Elijah wrote in his diary: 'I went to pay my respects to the Tap-room. I did have nothing to pay, but I did shew Old Ben a gold filling in one of my teeth, whereupon Old Ben grabbed a pair of fire tongs handily by and did with much force and vigor remove the gold filling and allowed me credit upon same. Whereupon I had myself a high olde tyme'.

"Old Ben, so the story goes, once caught his son wringing the bar rag into a cup and drinking the salvaged rum. Whereupon Old Ben 'did give him a tanning of the hyde saying, 'You'll be drinking up all the profits, knave'. (Ed. note: The present mayor of Durham, Benjamin Thompson Long claims direct descentance from Old Ben, although no records of Ben's ever having been married exist. However, no one has been able to disprove Long's claim, either.)

Enter the Villain

"The Rev. Billy Yale, famed Durham Revivalist, at first was much against drinking and carrying on at the Thompson Tap-room, saying in a fiery, vehement tirade: 'Tis a blasphemy for any man to indulge in the demon rum unless he suffers from lumbago, hives, the itch, goiter, ulcers, lacerations or pox'. Rev. Yale himself was an unfortunate sufferer of lumbago.

"In spite of Revivalist Bill's tirades, Old Ben prospered and in due time made contributions to the church and even bought the Rev. Billy Yale a team

Terrible Termites Tear Floor While Wide-awake Folks Wonder

With the let-up of the ball in the basket playing on the new New Hampshire floor, all the decent ambitious termites rose with a shout.

One from the many, who had studied all the propaganda techniques propounded in Goebbel's Diary, rose higher than the rest, and immediately voted himself unanimously their leader. This termite of radio commentator experience emanated his leading abilities — he appointed a fact finding council.

Flooring the Floor

This council in turn appointed committees to find all the weak points in the new alluring floor. A group of wood chemists were engaged to find the alcoholic content in a newly built mobile lab. Other committees included:

The Progressive Seating Plan Investigation Committee for Better Seating Comfort While Working (PSPICSCWW); the Dietician Advisory Committee for Better Grade Vitamins (DACBGV); Planning Committee for Ubiquitous Termite Recovery (PCVTR) and et cetera.

When all the dirt had been filed and and four. It is happy to see that Rev. Yale became more reasonable and human in his attitude, referring, in a later sermon, to Old Ben as 'a pillar of the community' and 'an upstanding citizen of Durham'.

Exit the Hero

"When Old Ben died — some say he was poisoned by a fanatic of the WCTU — part of his estate was left for the founding of the college. Another sizeable share went to a "Cuddles" in Hoboken, N. J. But the greater part of the Thompson fortune has never been recovered. It consists of eight barrels of rare vintage Cuban rum buried somewhere in back of where Hood House now stands.

The existence of this rum is fairly certain. Only back as far as the time all students at the University spent the day cleaning around campus for fire-prevention, a clue was found. One John Batchelder, late of College Road Dorm, was cleaning up behind Hood House and strangely insisted upon working right on through the noon hour. Every one else went to chow leaving John poking around the bushes. A few of his friends, suspicious of John's unusual behavior, went back a few hours later to see what was cooking. They found John floating down in the brook, the scent of rare Cuban rum around his mouth, and an angelic smile upon his lips."

At this point Professor Marston terminated the interview by turning to Dr. Batchelder and saying "How about another round of gin, Doc?"

reviewed, Leader X, who had been busily unifying his Armed Services, divulged his Top Secret Plan to the masses. With his unanimous approval, the wheels quickly began to churn. The termites were posted, the signal given, and with a gnash of their teeth, the offensive was on.

This simultaneous molar attack was so effective that the objective was accomplished in a few hours.

For miles around the crash of the new shining floor was heard. Pandemonium reigned at the sound of this earth shaking crash. People were heard gasping, "The end of the world has come." "Yes", an agreeing voice was heard, "And I haven't had a chance to wear my new nylons." Another: "I didn't have a chance to wear my new 3-piece bathing suit." "Pshaw", smirked a cynical voice, "Your father's water-wings!"

So it went on, till the quick moving local officials determined the cause and informed the metropolis' citizens of the astounding event.

So you see, even during vacation disaster hovers over Durham. The termites are terrible opportunities.

The Birth of a Prof.

A few days ago a Psychology Major, Keith Cooper, got in the Chem Lab and tried some experiments he had in mind. After many hours of mystery in which the two lab instructors, Mrs. Stoller and Mrs. Sedgewick were equally mystified at what was happening he gave a shout of joy. "Success at last, my project is done." "What is it" everyone wanted to know. "It's a Prof," came the reply.

So Dr. Big Dome was created. Since a Psychology Major created him it was only fair that the Psychology Department should keep him for a Prof.

One day one of his students jumped up and threw a ripe tomato at him. Now anything could happen to Dr. Big Dome for you must remember he was only a chemical composition.

Students who were there say that he simply evaporated in thin air in front of them.

Now we know where Profs come from and where they go.

Letters to the Editor

Crazier'n a Loon

To the Editor:

I have just received the latest issue of your newspaper, and I must write and tell you that I think it is excellent. The features, editorials, cartoons, etc., are excellent. May I offer you my congratulations.

You are probably wondering why I, a non-student, take such an interest in your paper. Well, you see, I was formerly a student at the University. But the work and all — the doctors decided I needed a rest. My address now is the Concord State Hospital, Concord, N. H. It's just temporary, I assure you. They tell me that if I eat my Cheerioats and don't try to knife the attendants, I'll be out of here soon.

Until then, keep up the good work!

Orchids to You too

To the Editor:

I think your paper stinks. The editorials are biased. The stories are boring. The features are crummy. The cartoons are silly. The whole thing stinks.

If you want more details on my opinions, I will be glad to send them to you. In fact, I will be more than overjoyed. I repeat, your paper stinks; in fact it "smells to heaven".

Changes - ?

To the Editor:

Dear Sir: I think that the dates on the calendar should be changed. I think that the number of years in a century should be changed. I think that the Constitution should be rewritten. I think that the enrollment should be changed. I think that we should establish a dictatorship. I propose a new national toast which would run as follows.

"Here's to the Wa-Wa-Wa-Wa Tee-See Bird, who lures the female into the deep, dark, depths of the jungle, and there high in the tops of the palm tree perpetrates his fiendish desires upon her, until upon becoming fully satiated, staggers blindly off into the burning sands of the desert, and there falling flat upon his face, murmurs feebly, 'Kabooah, Kabooah, Kaaa-aa-booh!' Which when translated from ancient African into modern English, means, 'Keeeeee-rist! ! What a sensation!'

mocracy, Dover, where they received the benevolent protection from the local constabulary and townspeople, and where they could live in the manner to which they wer accustomed.

Horrible Sensation

The first difficulty confronted was the ordeal of obtaining a passport from Durham and custom clearance at the border of these two towns. This situation was easily d'sposed of by the writer who claimed that he was going to Dover for the primary purpose of buying a rug for his room. A deliberate premise, to be sure, but how else could one escape Looie's watchful eye?

Once in Dover, the search was not as easy as one would imagine. Starting with the little green store, located near the Ramble Inn, the writer began his tireless quest for the martyrs of free speech and opinion. He received no satisfaction there — nothing, nothing but an unidentifiable parcel wrapped in brown paper that might in some way reveal the whereabouts of the hunted.

After disposing of the contents of the paper-wrapped parcel, which incidently, offered no clue to the whereabouts of the fugitives, the writer staggered endless miles, from store to store and from hovel to hovel, seeking

We Want Action

It seems to us that the administration and politics of Durham leaves much to be desired. We have in mind particularly the activity, or inactivity, of the Mayor of Durham. Since his election we have seen no evidence of action, on behalf of the citizens who elected him, by the Mayor, Mr. Benjamin Thompson Long.

For example, what has been done about the chief ill to beset this community in the last few months — namely the weather? Nothing! And why?

Another example — what has been done about the dictatorial practice of certain people (not to mention any names) of asking certain other persecuted individuals to withdraw from the community because of poor grades or some other inconsequential reason? Nothing! And why?

A third example — what has been done to eliminate the obnoxious practice of assigning homework to students already overburdened with social duties? Nothing? And why?

The mayorial machine has not even been oiled this year. Absolutely no opportunity for a little graft, honest or otherwise, has been provided for the faithful supporters of the faithless mayor. There have been no free handouts, no juicy contracts, no inside dope from the outside.

Perhaps one reason for this inactivity is that the Mayor has withdrawn from school. But where does that leave the citizens of this fair town? Right! Without a mayor!

And what about the request of the defeated McJugg for a recount of the vote? And who counted the vote in the first place? Not that we think that McJugg is a better man for the post, but if there's any dirty politics going on we want to know about it. It's no fun running a newspaper if we don't know what's going on.

We haven't any idea what can be done about this terrible situation. Maybe if the mayor were elected on April Fool's Day we would get a man more capable of fulfilling the responsibility the office entails. We don't know. But it's something to think about if you haven't anything else to do.

the answer to the all-important question. It seemed that failure was all he could find.

In desperation, he staggered into a joint, - - er, restaurant, "Bucky's" by name, and it seemed that at last Fate smiled upon him, for here he found one of the fw, a Miss Rosamond McClary, former House Director at UNH, but at present unemployed, who with good humor and bloodshot eyes, was toasting those who had vanquished her from her respectable position. With renewed vigor, the writer confronted her with the fatal question.

"Tell me, Miss McClary," he began "Do you think that sex will ever replace baseball as the national pastime?"

Miss McClary flinched, batted tired lids over red eyes, and almost lost an ounce of her drink. But she soon recovered and uttered these immortal words. "Of course not! Sex will never replace baseball. It's preposterous! Why sex and baseball have nothing in common. Besides, who ever heard of one man replacing nine?" And then, aside, she added, "What you doing to-nite, Kiddo?"

Desperate Search

The following afternoon, the writer once again resumed his search. Across from the railroad station, he came to a bistro, the name of which escapes his mind at present, where he found another of the martyrs. A degenerate looking fellow, who had situated himself in a booth near the beer spigots, (in order to alleviate the waitresses unnecessary hurrying back and forth to some inaccessible point of the room). Here, he sat and dreamed of days when he, too, was employed by the University as a professor of "Elbow-Tilting, 4-5". Occasionally, a tear rolled gently down his cheek and with a silent plop, dropped into his glass (thus increasing the contents).

CONNIE MACK TO REPLACE SWASEY

This week the sports page is short and sweet so the latest news flashes will have to appear in the Bull. A wild rumor was unexpectedly confirmed by Athletic Director Lundholm yesterday. It is that Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame All-American, has decided to come to Durham as a player. It seemed that Lujack was going to play for a professional team and that his college eligibility had expired. But, the University of New Hampshire has a financial boon recently and contacted the right people in Concord.

So, bub, don't ask any questions. Just visualize the Cats smelling sweet scented roses out in Pasadena next year. And yours truly getting a free trip out to the coast. (I repeat, don't ask any questions!)

As to the status of the Golden Boy, Bruce Mather, Lujack has kindly consented to giving him a place to sit on the bench on the 50-yard line. This was mighty white of him.

Manhattan's Madison Square Garden officials have decided to hold a new type of basketball tournament. It will include the worst college basketball teams that they can find in the country. Squee-tunck has been picked to play the University of New Hampshire's tame kittens. UNH is slightly favored as they won five games during the regular season and held Rhode Island under 100 points, not once, but twice! The New York City officials predicted a record breaking throng — especially from the borough of Brooklyn where people love to boo.

Just in keeping with the New Yorkers' idea of a booby prize, the Women's Recreational Association has announced that the girls' basketball aggregation shape up rather well for their encounter with Tau Kappa Epsilon, the only boys' Intramural team that failed to win a game. The dainty lassies are highly favored to keep the wolves away from their territory. It is expected that the males will be too busy drooling to pay much attention to the art of basketball. Their interests concern another art! However, it is certain that this time TKE will not suffer any attendance problems anyway.

Miracle Rubbing Oil To Aid Cat Tracksters

Some of the performances reported after its application are astounding. The situations, however, merit more study as it is extremely difficult to coordinate the application with the performance, the burst of achievement rather than the application occurring rather spontaneously.

The rarity of this potent potion has been attested to many times this season. The mixture has disappeared from the locker room upon several occasions, presumably purchased by rival colleges. To prevent further misappropriation the oil was secretly placed in a Babst Blue Ribbon beer can. This however led to disastrous consequences as the effects of internal consumption are somewhat gruesome.

The locker room upon several occasions, presumably purchased by rival colleges. To prevent further misappropriation the oil was secretly placed in a Babst Blue Ribbon beer can. This however led to disastrous consequences as the effects of internal consumption are somewhat gruesome.

Following this rather unfortunate experience, the men developed a testing system which will predict rather accurately the effect it may be expected to have. Small portions are poured on the wooden training table, the concrete floor, the window glass and the kangaroo leather running shoes. If it is not dissolved by the mixture is unstable and can be trusted. Any rubbing oil worth its name will dissolve kangaroo leather running shoes (spikes and all).

No one person seems to possess the complete formula. As it is extremely valuable, security demands that the several ingredients and processes be united separately. Of course this sometimes leads to slight confusion. Upon one occasion an incomplete formula reached the training table. A luckless trackman poured a portion on his hand prior to applying. As he was a runner his performance was not impaired, and he has since learned to tie his shoelaces with one hand.

A new secret formula rubbing oil concocted by the University Field House Association for Research and Development should produce wonders for the University Track team this coming season. This formula, the accumulation of many years of constant research and experiment on generations of unwary trackmen, is active testimony to the miracles of accumulative sedimentary chemistry.

Grand Old Man Arrives From Philadelphia Soon

By Bill Reid

The T-Hall wire system has been kept buzzing this week following the rumor that the erstwhile Connie Mack would shift his talents to the Durham campus in lieu of the indignation aroused by the present diamond generalissimo, apple-cheeked Hank Swasey. The facts of the change are not yet official but it is expected in reliable sources that Mr. Mack will arrive on campus within a fortnight to take over his new position. Once again the enterprising staff of the New Hampshire has scooped the thousands of national dailies and come through with the disclosure that rocked millions of readers.

In dropping the reins of his Philadelphia Athletics, Mack is relinquishing one of the most promising positions in the history of baseball. The shift may be explained, however, by the financial compensations he will receive from the munificent Board of Trustees at the Wildcat Country Club.

Mack is expected to soothe and stabilize the acute baseball crisis in Durham stemming from the fiery blasts of the youthful Swasey against the pessimistic attitude taken by the fraternity boys within his ranks. Swasey took over a year ago and breezed through a highly successful 4-7 season. There is a common campus suspicion that he received his position through family connections since it is no secret that his newly taken spouse once cavorted on the green grass surrounding the prexy's mansion on Main Street.

Mack's present plans call for an extensive barnstorming tour during which they face the sugar and honey of the grapefruit league competition when they oppose Radcliffe and Simmons on the way South. Both "shape" up as pretty good teams. They will wind up the pilgrimage with a brief but thorough education on the merits of proper form at Miami Beach.

It's "AIRIZAY" (Arise)—RCA Victor's new platter by Ray McKinley and his band

RAY MCKINLEY'S styling of the New Orleans ditty, "Airizay," is attracting lots of fans. If you ask Ray about it, he says: "I've found from long experience what style of music we do best—just as I've learned from experience that Camels suit my 'T-Zone' to a 'T.'" Try Camels! Learn for yourself why, with smokers who have tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience."

And here's another great record—
More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

Our Country Is In Danger !

● Our Leaders Are Heading Us Into World War III

World War II ended less than three years ago. Yet once again the steps to conflict are being taken. Afraid to confess the failure of the "Get Tough" policy in Greece and China, afraid to lose the coming elections, our inept leaders are gambling desperately with the security of our country and the world.

● Criticism Is Being Stifled

The administration is dreadfully afraid of criticism. In his March 17 speech in New York, Truman sought to label all criticism of his fatal policies as treason. The word "Communism" is being used as a club to bludgeon opposition at home, just as the new "anti-comintern" line is the tactless policy leading to war abroad.

● The Nation Is Being Militarized

Not only are high civil posts being filled by Generals and Admirals, but plans are laid to grab up the school age youth for the armed services through UMT; and to draft the older men through Selective Service.

● UN Has Been Sabotaged

While our State Department yells "Stop Thief" at the Russians, to our shame our own government is sabotaging the United Nations. The reneging of our agreements on Palestine is but one step in the undoing of everything for which our late President Roosevelt strove.

OPPOSE THE DRIVE TO WORLD WAR III

◆ Peace Is Possible

The American people don't want war. They know what it would cost in lives and freedom. The devastation caused by the last conflict means that the Russians must have peace. Our differences CAN be settled around the conference table.

◆ Students Must Rally To Save Peace And Democracy

Let us make no mistake about it. Most of our leaders want a war with Russia. To save the peace now will take more than good will. We must make our voices heard. It is to give the students a chance to make themselves heard on this all-important question that this rally is called.

Pandemonium Runs Riot Tomorrow Nite

Lamba Pi's novel fourth annual Pan-American Pandemonium will fill New Hampshire Hall with a South American setting tomorrow night from 7:30 to 11 p.m.

The hall will be covered with an assortment of gaily-decorated booths where all are invited to try their luck at various games of skill and chance. Semi-professional weight-guessers and fortune tellers will be on hand to display their knowledge of the present and the future.

The highlight of the evening will be a stage show of novelty acts and numbers to be MC'd by Shorty Bulger. Included will be South American ballads by Professor Schultz, barbershop songs by the Phi Mu Delta quartet, a piano duet by Tage Taylor and Buck Johnston, and novelty songs by the Bob Boke quartet. Jeannary Durant will dance, and Betsy Howard will give a dramatic monologue.

Special prizes have been purchased to reward the winners of the various games. At the end of the evening there will be a drawing for three big door prizes.

Mexico will be the theme of the evening. A section of the hall will be set aside for dancing to South American music.

Tickets at only thirty cents, tax included, will be on sale at the door.

Chaperones for the affair are Miss Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. Brett, and Mr. and Mrs. Sheier.

Laura Washburn is the Dance Chairman, and the Decoration Committee, headed by Jean Farrington, plans to deck the hall with umbrellas and other items to carry out the theme of the dance. Barbara Newall, refreshment committee chairman, says there will be a variety of ice cream cones on hand. Publicity and posters are in charge of Barbara Tucker, Nancy Cutler, Betty Becker, and Anna Sturtevant.

A message to you from the Chief of Staff

"April 6 is Army Day. It is a day which will have a special meaning for college men. More than half of you are veterans of the last war. Many of you are members of the Organized Reserve. Many others belong to the R.O.T.C. or National Guard.

"All of you are making a vital contribution toward World Peace and the security of this nation.

"The U. S. Army is the finest army in the world and the only one of its kind among the major powers. It is 100% volunteer. It is composed entirely of civilian soldiers . . . men like yourselves who realize that a strong America is a peaceful America, and that the responsibility of making America strong rests in the hands of every American citizen.

"The U. S. Army is not a large army, as armies go. It is shouldering tasks far greater than any other army of like size has ever attempted.

Our occupation force in Japan is the smallest per capita of any modern occupation army. Our force in Europe is the smallest of the three major powers.

"But behind this Army stand you men of the Organized Reserve and the R.O.T.C. I have known many of you personally. I have been with many of you in action. I know the fine type of men you are and the realism that leads you to equip yourselves with military training.

"Further, I know the valuable service you can render the nation in time of emergency. A great deal of the success of fast mobilization and the actual winning of the war was due to the 106,000 trained Reserve Officers and the top-notch National Guard units which were available for quick action.

"To you, on Army Day, I believe I speak for millions of Americans in offering commendation for the fine job you are doing."
